The move has been universally panned by experts as a half-baked technical gimmick, but EA Sports have now walked-back the announcement, reasserting that it intends to use the technology in FIFA on PlayStation 4 and Xbox One later this year. The evolution of play in FIFA 22 is set to be fast-paced and unpredictable, with new animations, AI, and playing styles bringing the genre into a new era. The FIFA team has been working on the next-gen changes for the past two years and this year's gameplay innovations will ensure that our next-gen implementation is the most comprehensive and best in class experience possible. FIFA 19 (PS4 and Xbox One) came out back in September last year and it was a game-changer for the PlayStation 4 and Xbox One. FIFA 17 had already been heralded as the best-selling football game of all time, but FIFA 19 pushed the bar to a whole new level with an in-depth improvements to 3D physics and new game-changing features. For example, the finesse of players were brought to life as they were able to adjust the rebound on shots and adjust their styles of play, making FIFA 17 the finest football simulation ever created on any home console. With FIFA 21, the team is hell-bent on improving the control, movement, and emotional connection to the game in a range of different ways. These changes will also be included in FIFA 19 for PS4 and Xbox One, so they'll carry-over for the console versions of FIFA 21. Check out these nine things we're looking forward to with FIFA 21. #1 - New Control Scheme The FIFA control scheme has been tweaked up in FIFA 20 by bringing it closer to the control scheme on console. Not only that, but it has been overhauled to bring about a more intuitive onscreen experience by being able to adjust player-to-player spacing without the need to go through menus. #2 - New Camera Control This one should be more obvious, but new camera controls allow for a total 360-degree view of the pitch and the ability to angle the camera as well as zoom in and out at will. #3 - New Player Modeling and Dynamic Feet This is the biggest change we've seen. In FIFA 19, the player models were about as realistic as you could get but they just didn't move with
