Billy J. Williams released the following statement today regarding the federal law enforcement response to the current records. If that's true, then that means they can't at the moment. In the event that they cannot determine which entry was modified when posted, they will be able to determine who is the author of the post that was posted. In this case, it can be argued that the entry they should have discovered was not modified prior to publication. Since posting last August, the entry that was posted under Williams' name has been blocked from the RapidShare website.
